Sari—

As you know, the Receiver ordered WooCommerce to take down the website on August 31, 2023. We did that and also copied the website at the Receiver's request.

In order for the Receiver to dispute chargebacks using the website, we are in the process of bringing up a version of the website that will not be accessible to the public. We assigned engineers to that task and I am scheduled to get a report today as to the status of that work. I will let you know the status once it is received.

External Email – Use Caution

Thank you, Jonathan.

Michael, can you please provide us with access immediately?

Sari,

I'm copying Michael Tucci, counsel for WooCommerce. I understand that Woo can help with access to the disputes dashboard.

I was able to get access into the account but I cannot "do anything." I imagine that is because the account is frozen.

The only thing I see when I sign is in the following...

Charges and payouts are currently paused
Charges and payouts on your WooCommerce Payments account have been paused. Please reach out to your platform at support@woocommerce.com to resolve this issue.

Can you please advise next steps to review the chargebacks?

Thanks much.

I did not, but it appears that Stripe did in order to grant you account access.
